A photograph of a dining table set for a festive occasion. The table is covered with a light-colored, textured placemat. Several tall, black, tapered candles are lit, casting a warm glow. There are also several small, round, gold-colored LED table lamps with a textured surface, some of which are lit. The table is set with various glassware, including wine glasses and water glasses, and plates. A white napkin is folded and placed on a plate in the foreground. The background shows a light-colored wall and a window with sheer curtains.
